THE MIDLAND RAILROAD CASE. - Judge Keith, in the case of Graham, vs. the Virginia Midland Railroad, decided this morning :

1. That the claims of employees and parties furnishing supplies do not take priority over the mortgaged debt. The Judge declared his sympathy to be with the claimants, but the law being so well established against them, he would not subject himself to a reversal, or them to costs by a decision in their favor. 2. Six per centum interest to be allowed on past due and funded ocupons.

3. The first mortgage of the Orange, Alexandria and Manassas Railroad Co. takes priority as to the Manassas Gap Railroad from Manassas to Harrisonburg over the previous mortgages of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. In other words, that the road from Manassas to Harrisonburg was not "after acquired property" of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad Co. by reason of the consolidation under the act of Assembly oreating the Orange, Alexandria and Manassas Railroad Co., and did not, therefore, pass under the mortgages of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad made previous to the consolidation.

It is surprising to see the proficiency these young men have attained when it is remembered that this was the third time they had ever handled their guns. The accoutrements arrived yesterday, and the company is now fully armed and equipped. We hope soon to see it with a handsome stand of colors, and a muster roll of a bundred men. We deem it a real source of congratulation that the old towe is to be represented by such a promising company among the soldiers of Virginia; and though we hope the rude blasts of war will gover summon them to the tented field, yet as the descondants of the Army of Northern Virginia they will know

"There is something of pride in the perilous Whate'or be the shape in which Death may

To the people of Alexandria it is hardly nccessary to commend this organization. It deserves the cordial and liberal support of all, and we shall be disappointed if it does not meet the encouragement it so well merits.

CARRIER PIGEONS.—Three birds—a cock and two bens-belonging to Mr. J. H. D. Smoot, of Alexandria, were liberated here from the court house steeple at 11:15 a. m., last Saturday, by Dr. E. F. Kloman. The day was a fine one for light, but the birds seemed indisposed to take their departure. They circled around and lighted on the combs of houses in town, and did not make final departure before 1:15 p. m. A letter from Mr. Soloot says the silver dun hen reached her core at 2:15 p. m., the blue hen between 5 and 6 p. m., and the red cock at 1 p. m. next day. The messages borne by the birds were mailed back to the sender. These birds are now only four months old, but have made the passage from Charlottesville to Alexandria in 3 hours and S minutes. Next year Mr. Smoot will renew the sport .- Warrenton Index.
